Abstract

We believe that at the present time it will be very hard to find an economist or a politician that would support the idea that the globalization showed up in the last century or, generally talking, not long time ago. As a phenomenon it already existed probably back to the time of Moses or Jesus because starting at that moment humankind was influenced by movements from outside certain communities. This influence is probably the main characteristic, without it the process of globalization is not imaginable.

Keywords: globalisation, globalisation processes, new economy, global methods.
