Abstract

In an environment of social and political change, the issue of management of higher education acquires special significance concerning financing, content, quality and efficiency of educational systems and activities.

During the current period, management is a key feature in the organization and conduct of university life. Management, as specific type of activity, stems from the very existence of the university system itself as a whole unit of elements, actions whose normal function depends not only on the nature and relations between them, but also on the whole organization and coordination of its components.

Keywords : university management, higher education, programs of study, professional power, methodological option.
